

TWO HEROES RIDE ON CREST OF WAVE TO DECK OF SHIP

Asfour Passengers of La Lorraine With Weird Tale of Fight for Life.

FOUND IN MID-OCEAN.

Captain Is Sceptical, However, and Men Finally Land in the Brig.

The French liner La Lorraine left Havre on Feb. 14. On the first day she ran into a storm. Before night she was struggling in the teeth of a howling gale. All through the night and the next day the ship labored in the storm. The gale increased to hurricane force. The waves made mountains and valleys of the sea. A great comb rose high and crashed down on deck over the ship's bow. It drove in forward lifeboat No. 1 and

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Riden, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It is advertised in all papers. I am, Mrs. S. T. Hurley, Riden, Mo."

cleaned the deck like a young Niagara Falls.

A cry rang out from forward and the two mates rushed in the direction of the sound. Curled up in two heaps were two men, wet and exhausted and barely able to talk. Like a gale the news swept through the ship that two men had been washed up on deck out of the stormy sea.

Capt. Maurras was on the bridge when the two human gerbils were carried into the cabin and the passengers gathered around them. They motioned that they were thirsty. Whiskey was poured down their throats. Changes of clothing were provided and when they were warm and comfortable they told of their awful experience in the sea for the past three days.

TOLD WEIRD TALE OF MAD CAPTAIN AMUCK.

They were Jean Fairman, a Frenchman, and Ramon Naves, a Spaniard. Both were young men, Ramon being not more than eighteen. They had sailed from Cadix for Havre, the boy said, on the ship El Toro. He was supercargo and his companion a petty officer. Three days before, when the vessel was in the midst of a hurricane and everything movable on deck was being washed overboard, the captain went mad and ran amuck on deck with a revolver in each hand. With others, these two survivors had been compelled to jump into the boiling sea.

They found a cask which had been washed overboard and they landed upon it. For a day and a half in the icy waters they held on to the cask and then their support, waterlogged, slipped from under them and sank. They swam, they treaded water, they floated on their backs.

What followed they had little recollection of, only they remembered the long struggle to keep alive in sea washing over them, smothering them in their embrace, smothering them with whip-like blows in the crests of high waves and being carried like the slide of a toboggan down into the deep swales of water.

WOMEN PASSENGERS ADORED THE SAILORS.

It was a wonderful tale they told. It excited the sympathies of the French passengers. The women adored them. The best on the ship was none to good for them. A splendid feast was laid before them. Capt. Maurras listened to the tale with wonder and incredulity. It puzzled the old veteran, but who than a sailor can better tell of the strange happenings of the sea? "How was the wind?" he asked of Fairman, his countryman.

"South, by northwest," was the ready response. The captain gave a violent start. "Um!" he said, "and the name of the ship was El Toro? In English they call that the bull."

And just then a petty officer stepped up to the captain, saluted him and said that he had the honor to report that the forward lifeboat No. 1 had been stove in, the covering and lashings carried away, that all the drinking water and the canned provisions were gone. The cans were in the bottom of the lifeboat.

HEROES WERE THROWN INTO THE BRIG.

The heroes were hauled away from the Lucian feast and strapped into the brig. They told how it happened. They had stowed away in the lifeboat at Havre. They had lived on the canned goods and the water with which they had suffered much from the cold and they had thought that every moment the ship was going to sink. When the big wave hit the lifeboat they were dumped out on deck and thought that they might get away with their lurid story. They arrived in port still in the brig and they will return to Havre in the ship that fished them up from mid-ocean.

NO FEAR OF CIVIL WAR IN IRELAND OVER THE HOME RULE ISSUE

Delegates From Gaelic League Say Situation Is Not Acute as Cabled.

Dearmuid Lynch and Thomas Ashe, agents of the Gaelic League of Ireland, are at the Waldorf-Astoria preparing for a lecture tour of the United States to extend over a period of a year. They have come from Dublin with a double purpose—to help along the Gaelic language and sports revival in this country and to raise money for the aid of the widespread educational movement in Ireland.

In all the Irish speaking districts of Ireland the League wants the medium of instruction to be in the Gaelic language exclusively. In the semi-Irish speaking districts the League wants the Gaelic language put on a plane of equality with the English language as the medium of instruction. And the League insists that the teaching of the Gaelic language be obligatory in all schools where there are competent teachers.

The league aims to live up to this platform: promulgated by Dr. Douglas Hyde:

"We stand immovable on the bedrock of the doctrine of true Irish nationality—an Ireland self-centred, self-sufficing, self-supporting, self-reliant—an Ireland speaking its own language, thinking its own thoughts, writing its own books, singing its own songs, playing its own games and going for nothing outside the four shores of Ireland that can possibly be procured inside them."

The National Board of Education in Ireland is lamed by the English Lord Lieutenant, and up to this time the league has not met with much encouragement from that direction, but public sentiment is being awakened and continual agitation is bound to bring results. If Mr. Lynch and Ashe can raise $50,000 in their visit to the United States they figure that the battle can be won, for already the Gaelic movement has passed beyond the stage where it can be halted by any official or bureau.

"Since our arrival here we have heard a great deal about the possibilities of civil war in Ireland over the position of an element in Ulster regarding Home Rule. There is apparently much more excitement here about that matter than in Ireland. A great many highly colored accounts of the situation must have been sent to the United States. We are not at all alarmed, just what is going on and we can assure you that there will be no civil war. I doubt if there will be any hostilities except such as may be conducted by the medium of oratory, in which the patriots who are opposing Home Rule are extremely proficient."

SCHWAB AND MARDI GRAS.

Never Heard of Celebration Before Reaching New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—"What's the occasion?" asked Charles E. Schwab last night, puzzled by the street illuminations and the unusual crowds on his arrival here.

"Carnival," he was told. He wanted to know what carnival, and it was explained that the annual Mardi Gras celebration, kept up here for several centuries, was in progress.

Mr. Schwab said he never had heard of it before.

SLIDE SCARE BREAKS LEG.

Woman Is Injured During Her First Toboggan Trip.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 22.—While tobogganing on the slide at the Ridge-wood Country Club Miss Amy Lee, a nurse in the training school of the New York Hospital, accidentally broke her leg.

Miss Lee was a guest at the club and it was her first trip down the slide, which is one thousand feet in length. She became frightened when the toboggan gained speed, and put her leg, which struck the icy bank and threw her from the sled.

IF CHILD IS CROSS,
FEVERISH AND SICK

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs," because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Beware of any other kind with contempt.

EX-SENATOR TELLER DIES IN DENVER

Statesman Long Prominent Succumbs After Two Years' Illness

—Was 83 Years Old.

DENVER, Feb. 22.—Henry Moore Teller, former Cabinet officer and for more than thirty years United States Senator from Colorado, died here early to-day. Mr. Teller, who was eighty-three years old, had been ill for two years and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Teller was one of the original "Silver Republicans." Many of his supporters contended he was the first. He bolted the Republican national convention at St. Louis in 1896, because he did not agree with the gold standard plank of the platform and ran again for the Senate in Colorado as an independent Silver Republican.

He was elected with ninety-four votes out of 100, and, after serving that term, the Silver Republicans in Colorado merged with the Democrats and Mr. Teller returned to the Senate—that time as a Democrat.

He served one term as such and retired in 1908, to make a place for the late Senator Hughes, also of the same party.

During his early period in Congress he took a leading part in the Haywood-Tilden controversy in 1876. He was born in Allegany County, N. Y., in 1830.

800 "NEWSIES," GUESTS OF MRS. GUGGENHEIM, EAT, SING AND CHEER

Paper Sellers Celebrate Washington's Birthday With a Wild Party.

Eight hundred of New York's loud-throated celebrators of the Washington Birthday anniversary to-day at the Grace Memorial Newsboys' House. The owners of the throats dined and listened to music and did not listen to several speeches. And, also they sang and cheered.

The celebration is an annual affair to which Mrs. Eliza Guggenheimer always contributes a dinner in memory of her late husband, Randolph Guggenheimer. H. Randolph Guggenheimer was there and addressed the boys for two minutes. Those in front tried to hear what was said. Those in the rear one-stepped and whistled so that no one could get a sound. The same fate was dealt out to Louis Wiley, Major Arthur Taylor and Herbert F. Gunnison, though Mr. Gunnison was listened to part of the time.

But when it came to singing—that was something different. The first song was "America." If you have ever had an overgrown auto horn explode just behind you, you may have some slight idea of the effect of the first note. The boys sang just as they call papers. Then they did tempestuous versions of many of the popular songs.

Later came the real thing. The moment the last song was sung there was a wild dash for the banquet hall. A squad of police had its hands full trying to keep a passage clear and several smaller boys were squeezed and slightly hurt.

But finally the banquet hall opened and 200 found places. They stuffed themselves with everything the normal boy desires. Then 200 more entered. In all there were four relays, and they kept the dining room busy from 3 o'clock until 6 o'clock.

To-night the boys are holding an amateur entertainment at the same place.
